1 Lead Plaintiffs through their undersigned counsel, submit this memorandum
 2 of law in support of their motion, pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 3 23(e), for final approval of the class action Settlement, as set forth in the 4 Stipulation and Agreement of Settlement, dated December 16, 2013 (dkt. # 123)
 5 (the “Settlement Agreement” or “Stipulation.”). This Action has been settled for a 6 $2,500,000 cash payment. The Settlement results from Lead Plaintiffs’ vigorous 7 case prosecution and arm’s length settlement negotiations between the parties.

8 I. OVERVIEW OF THE LITIGATION^{1,2}

9 The Settlement was brought to fruition only after hard-fought litigation by 10 Lead Plaintiffs’ Counsel. This Litigation was carefully investigated and 11 vigorously litigated from start to finish. Throughout this Litigation, Settling 12 Defendants have asserted aggressive defenses and have maintained that Plaintiffs 13 could not prevail on their claims.

14 This case was filed as a class action on behalf of all persons who purchased 15 Radient Pharmaceuticals Corporation (“Radient” or the “Company”) common 16 stock between January 18, 2011 through March 4, 2011, inclusive (the “Class 17 Period”). By Order dated June 6, 2011, the Court appointed Reydel Quintana, Dat 18 Tan Tran, and Agnes Cho as Lead Plaintiffs, and approved their selection of The 19 Rosen Law Firm, P.A. Lead Counsel. See Rosen Decl. ¶ 9.
 20

21 The Settlement was not achieved until Plaintiffs and their counsel (a) 22 reviewed and analyzed publicly available information about Radient including the 23

24 1 Unless otherwise defined, capitalized terms herein have the same meanings 25 attributed to them in the Stipulation.

26 2 For the sake of brevity, a full description of the procedural history of this 27 Action has been omitted. It can be found in the Declaration of Laurence Rosen In 28 Support of Final Approval of Class Action Settlement and Plan of Allocation filed herewith (“Rosen Decl.” or “Rosen Declaration”), ¶¶ 8-20.

1 Company's SEC filings, news articles, conference call transcripts, analyst reports, 2 and stock trading data; (b) consulted with and retained experts relating to 3 damages, loss causation, market efficiency, and clinical trials; (c) filed the 4 operative complaint, (d) successfully opposed Defendants' motion to dismiss; (e) 5 obtained class certification; (f) completed fact and expert discovery, which 6 included the review of thousands of documents, and nine fact depositions and 7 three expert depositions; (g) successfully opposed Settling Defendants' motions 8 for summary judgment; (h) engaged in trial preparation; (i) engaged in frequent 9 settlement negotiations throughout the litigation, including an all-day mediation 10 with retired Magistrate Judge Leo S. Papas; and (j) negotiated and drafted the 11 Stipulation of Settlement and Notice to class members. Rosen Decl., ¶ 6.

12 The $2,500,000 million settlement could not have been achieved earlier in 13 the litigation as the amounts offered by Settling Defendants did not approach the 14 settlement amount until the eve of trial. Rosen Decl., ¶ 23.

15 To date, 12,389 claim packets, including the detailed "Notice of Pendency 16 and Settlement of Class Action," ("the "Notice") and "Proof of Claim and 17 Release" form have been sent by first-class mail to potential Settlement Class 18 Members, and a Summary Notice has been timely published in Investor's
 19 Business Daily and through Globenewswire. See Declaration of Josephine Bravata 20 Concerning Mailing of Notice of Pendency and Settlement of Class Action and 21 Proof of Claim and Release Form attached ("Bravata Decl."), ¶¶ 4-7 (attached as 22 Ex. 1 to Rosen Declaration). The deadline to object to any aspect of the 23 Settlement is April 2, 2014 and the deadline to request exclusion is March 24, 24 2014. Bravata Decl., ¶¶ 9-10. To date, there has been one request for exclusion, 25 but it failed to indicate the purchase and sale dates of Radient stock, and no 26 objections. Id.

27
 28

1 As detailed in the Rosen Declaration, the Settlement represents a realistic 2 assessment by knowledgeable and experienced attorneys of the risks of trial and 3 Settling Defendants' poor financial condition. Rosen Decl., ¶¶ 24. Thus, not only 4 was it unlikely that Radient would be able to satisfy a greater judgment, there was 5 the substantial risk that were the litigation to continue for through trial and 6 appeals, even the current Settlement amount would become unrecoverable. The 7 Settlement, on the other hand, confers an immediate and substantial benefit on the 8 Settlement Class. It represents a recovery of approximately 25.8% of the Class' 9 maximum estimated damages, and eliminates the risk, expense and uncertainty of 10 continued litigation under circumstances where a more favorable outcome was at 11 great risk. Rosen Decl., ¶ 24. By any objective measure, the Settlement is fair, 12 reasonable, and adequate and should be approved.

13

II. THE COURT SHOULD APPROVE THE PROPOSED SETTLEMENT AS FAIR, REASONABLE AND ADEQUATE TO THE CLASS

16

A. Standards of Review

17

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(e) provides that “[t]he court must approve any settlement, voluntary dismissal, or compromise of the claims, issues, or defenses.” In deciding whether to approve a proposed settlement, the Ninth Circuit has a “strong judicial policy that favors settlements, particularly where complex class action litigation is concerned.” Linney v. Cellular Alaska P'ship, 151 F.3d 1234, 1238 (9th Cir. 1998); Class Plaintiffs v. City of Seattle, 955 F.2d 1268, 1276 (9th Cir. 1992). Consequently, in making its assessment pursuant to Rule 23(e), the Court’s intrusion upon what is otherwise a private consensual agreement negotiated between the parties to a lawsuit must be limited to the extent necessary to reach a reasoned judgment that the agreement is not the product of fraud or overreaching by, or collusion between, the negotiating parties, and that

28

1 the settlement, taken as a whole, is fair, reasonable and adequate to all concerned.
 2 Officers for Justice v. Civil Serv. Comm'n., 688 F.2d 615, 625 (9th Cir. 1982); see 3 also In re Mego Fin. Corp. Sec. Litig., 213 F.3d 454, 458 (9th Cir. 2000); Hanlon
 4 v. Chrysler Corp., 150 F.3d 1011, 1027 (9th Cir. 1998).

5 There is no prescribed settlement approval procedure to be followed in this 6 Circuit. Rather, the ultimate decision is within the “sound discretion of the district 7 courts to appraise the reasonableness of particular class-action settlements on a 8 case-by-case basis.” Evans v. Jeff D., 475 U.S. 717, 742 (1986); see also Hanlon, 9 150 F.3d at 1011, 1025. To avoid excessive intrusion into the parties’ 10 compromise, the court considers the settlement taken as a whole, rather than its 11 individual component parts, and examines it for overall fairness. Officers for 12 Justice, 688 F.2d at 628. Consequently, a settlement hearing is “not to be turned 13 into a trial or rehearsal for trial on the merits,” nor should the proposed settlement 14 “be judged against a hypothetical or speculative measure of what might have been 15 achieved by the negotiators.” Id. at 625. To the contrary, “[t]he involvement of 16 experienced class action counsel and the fact that the settlement agreement was 17 reached in arm’s length [sic] negotiations, after relevant discovery had taken place 18 create a presumption that the agreement is fair.” Linney v. Alaska Cellular P’ship, 19 1997 WL 450064, *5 (N.D. Cal. July 18, 1997), aff’d, 151 F.3d 1234 (9th Cir.
 20 1998); Ellis v. Naval Air Rework Facility, 87 F.R.D. 15, 18 (N.D. Cal. 1980), 21 aff’d, 661 F.2d 939 (9th Cir. 1981).

22 As explained below, the Settlement was reached after extensive 23 investigation and litigation by experienced counsel on both sides, and after 24 protracted arms-length negotiations. Under these circumstances, the Settlement 25 should be afforded the presumption of fairness.

26
 27
 28

1 B. All of the Relevant Considerations Employed by Courts in This 2 Circuit Favor Approval of the Proposed Settlement

3 To determine whether a proposed settlement is fair, reasonable, and 4 adequate, a court must examine the following factors: (1) the strength of the 5 plaintiffs' case; (2) the risk, expense, complexity, and likely duration of further 6 litigation; (3) the risk of maintaining class action status throughout the trial; (4) 7 the amount offered in settlement; (5) the extent of discovery completed and the 8 stage of the proceedings; (6) the experience and views of counsel; (7) the presence 9 of a governmental participant; and (8) the reaction of the class members to the 10 proposed settlement. Linney, 151 F.3d at 1242; Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1026. While 11 these factors need to be explored comprehensively when a settlement is reached 12 prior to formal class certification, Mego, 214 F.3d at 458, as applied to the instant 13 action, these factors all point toward approval of the proposed Settlement.

14 1. Strength of Plaintiffs' Case, The Risk, Expense,
15 Complexity and Likely Duration of Further Litigation

16 This action settled on the eve of trial and after substantial trial preparation, 17 thus Lead Plaintiffs and their counsel were well aware of the strengths and 18 weaknesses of the case and the risks of proceeding to trial and navigating the likely 19 appeals. E.g. Rosen Decl. ¶¶ 34-39.

20 Lead Plaintiffs' faced numerous complex and challenging risks at trial. As to 21 scienter, Settling Defendants had colorable defenses that demonstrated that there 22 was a "clinical trial" of Onko-Sure that involved some Mayo Clinic personnel, 23 thus, this could support Defendants' contention that they did not act with scienter, 24 but more akin to an inactionable state of mind such as gross negligence. This 25 determination would turn on the jury's assessment of Settling Defendants on the 26 stand and posed a significant risk to Lead Plaintiffs at trial, as no one can 27 accurately predict how a particular witness would present in front a jury. Rosen 28 Decl., ¶ 35. Indeed, in a defendant's mental state, "[i]t is known from past

1 experience that no matter how confident one may be of the outcome of litigation, 2 such confidence is often misplaced.” See In re Heritage Bond Litig., Nos. 02-ML-3 1475 DT et seq., 2005 WL 1594403, at *7 (C.D. Cal. June 10, 2005) (quoting West 4 Virginia v. Chas. Pfizer & Co., 314 F. Supp. 710, 743-44 (S.D.N.Y. 1970)).

5 As to damages, they would have been subject to the proverbial “battle of the 6 experts” and again, one cannot predict which damages model or estimate the fact 7 finder would accept, given the complexities involved. This posed a significant risk 8 given the divergent opinions on damages. Rosen Decl., ¶ 36. As one Court 9 observed:

10 In this “battle of experts,” it is virtually impossible to predict with any 11 certainty which testimony would be credited, and ultimately, which 12 damages would be found to have been caused by actionable, rather 13 than the myriad nonactionable factors such as general market conditions.

14 In re Warner Comm. Sec. Litig., 618 F. Supp. 735, 744-45 (S.D.N.Y. 1985); see 15 also Heritage, 2005 WL 1594403, at *6 (noting that class actions have a well-16 deserved reputation as being the most complex) (citation omitted); In re Nasdaq 17 Market-Makers Antitrust Litig., 187 F.R.D. 465, 477 (S.D.N.Y. 1998) (same).

18 Setting aside the difficulties in proving Lead Plaintiffs’ claims at trial and 19 upholding them on appeal, pragmatic considerations dictate that settlement at this 20 time is in the best interest of the Class. Moreover, it is not likely Settling 21 Defendants could satisfy a greater judgment given Radient common stock trades 22 at a fraction of a penny and it generates no material revenue. Rosen Decl., ¶ 24.

23 On the other hand, the Settlement confers an immediate, reasonable, and 24 valuable cash benefit to Class Members – one that negates the very real risks to 25 recovery posed by continued litigation. As explained by the Ninth Circuit, 26 whereas here, if the financial condition of the Settling Defendants is strained, this 27 factor weighs in favor of approving the Settlement and “predominate[s]” over the 28

1 other factors. Torrissi v. Tucson Elec. Power Co., 8 F.3d 1370, 1376 (9th Cir. 1993)
2 (financial condition of the Company “predominated” over other factors in favor of 3 settlement); see also In re Ikon Office Solutions, Inc., 194 F.R.D. 166, 183 (E.D.
4 Pa. 2000).

5 2. The Amount Offered in the Settlement

6 Settling Defendants’ payment of $2,500,000 in cash to the Class will 7 provide an excellent recovery under the circumstances. Reality dictates that, to 8 settle a case, some discount needs to be offered to the defendants, or they would 9 otherwise have no economic incentive to settle. Additionally, in the context of a 10 factually and legally complex securities class action lawsuit, responsible class 11 counsel cannot be certain that they will be able to obtain – and enforce – a 12 judgment at or near the full amount of the class-wide damages that they would 13 propose. Thus, the possibility that a class “might have received more if the case 14 had been fully litigated is no reason not to approve the settlement.” Granada Invs., Inc. v. DWG Corp., 962 F.2d 1203, 1206 (6th Cir. 1992) (citation omitted); 15 Officers for Justice, 688 F.2d at 628 (“It is well-settled law that a cash settlement 16 amounting to only a fraction of the potential recovery does not per se render the 17 settlement inadequate or unfair.”).

18 Here, the Settlement represents 25.8% of Plaintiffs’ estimated maximum 19 damages in this case are approximately $9.675 million. E.g., Rosen Decl., ¶¶ 24, 20 36. A 25.8% recovery of Plaintiffs’ maximum damages is an excellent result and 21 beyond the typical recoveries of cases of this type. See In re Prudential Sec., Inc. L.P. Litig., 1995 WL 798907 (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 20, 1995) (approving settlement of 22 between 1.6% and 5% of claimed damages); In re Rite Aid Corp. Sec. Litig., 146 23 F.Supp.2d 706, 715 (E.D. Pa. 2001) (noting that since 1995, class action 24 settlements have typically recovered “between 5.5% and 6.2% of the class 25 members’ estimated losses).

26
27
28

Indeed, recent studies show that the median settlement value as a percentage of damages for cases such as this one with $9.675 million in damages is 17%. See Dr. Renzo Comolli, Sukaina Klein, Ron Miller, and Svetlana Starykh, Recent Trends in Securities Class Action Litigation: 2012 Full-Year Review, at p. 32, attached as Ex. 3 to the Rosen Declaration; see, also, In re Cendant Corp. Sec. Litig., 109 F.Supp. 2d 235, 245 (D.N.J. 2000)(citing: (1) study of 377 securities class action settlements which found that the average settlement comprises between 9% and 14% of claimed damages and (2) cases which settled for 1.6% - 10% of claimed damages). These figures are based on the gross recovery in cases, before the deduction of attorneys' fees and expenses. See also In re Cendant Corp. Litig., 264 F.3d 201, 240 (3d. Cir. 2001) (typical recoveries in securities class actions range from 1.6% to 14% of total losses).

Finally, Plaintiffs' estimated recovery figure is based upon their calculation of provable damages, and does not take into account the various defenses described above. See Rosen Decl., ¶¶ 34-39. If a jury chose to credit Settling Defendants' expert over Lead Plaintiffs' expert, in whole or in part, with respect to whether a significant portion of the share price decline was causally related to Settling Defendants' alleged misrepresentations and omissions, this could have substantially reduced the total amount of damages. See Rosen Decl., ¶ 36. Consequently, had the case been tried, there was a fair possibility that the damages ultimately proved could have been lower. See, e.g., Heritage, 2005 WL 1594403, at *7 (citing In re Sumitomo Cooper Litig., 189 F.R.D. 274, 282 (S.D.N.Y. 1999), where the court recounted several instances where settlement was rejected by a court only to have the recovery generated by continued litigation ultimately be less than the proposed settlement).

3. Risk of Maintaining a Class Action

1 Even though a class has been certified prior to settlement proceedings, such 2 an order would be conditional. Rule 23(c)(1) expressly provides that a class 3 certification order may be “altered or amended before final judgment.” See, e.g., 4 Viscaino v. U.S. District Court, 173 F.3d 713, 721 (9th Cir. 1999) (certification 5 order may be altered or amended “before the decision on the merits”).

6 Additionally, the Supreme Court recently heard oral argument in 7 Halliburton Co. v. Erica P. John Fund, Inc., No. 13-317 considering the viability
8 of the fraud-on-the-market presumption of reliance. Should the Supreme Court 9 change the law on the presumption, which was invoked in this case, it is likely 10 that additional complex and expensive proceedings would be required to the 11 address any change in law—especially given the fact Lead Plaintiffs’ relied on 12 expert evidence to invoke the fraud-on-the-market presumption of reliance.
13 Rosen Decl., ¶ 37.

14 4. Stage of the Proceedings

15 Lead Plaintiffs and their counsel had sufficient information to evaluate their 16 case and to assess the propriety of a settlement. As noted above, extensive fact 17 and expert discovery was completed, summary judgment motions were decided, 18 and trial preparation was initiated. Thus, Lead Plaintiffs and their counsel were in 19 an excellent position to evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of their allegations 20 against the Settling Defendants, and the defenses raised thereto, as well as the 21 substantial risks of continued litigation, and to conclude that the settlement 22 provides a fair, adequate, and reasonable recovery, and that is in the best interest 23 of the Class. Having sufficient information to properly evaluate the Litigation, 24 Plaintiffs have managed to settle this Litigation on terms very favorable to the 25 Class and without the substantial additional expense, risk, and uncertainty of 26 continued litigation. This factor weighs in favor of this Court’s approval of the 27 settlement.

28

2 5. Experienced Counsel Concur that the Settlement, Which 3 was Negotiated in Good Faith and at Arm's-Length, is 4 Fair, Reasonable, and Adequate

5 “[T]he fact that experienced counsel involved in the case approved the 6 settlement after hard-fought negotiations is entitled to considerable weight.” Ellis, 7 87 F.R.D. at 18; see also National Rural, 221 F.R.D. at 528 (“Great weight is 8 accorded to the recommendation of counsel, who are most closely acquainted with 9 the facts of the underlying litigation””) (quoting In re Painewebber Ltd. P'ships
10 Litig., 171 F.R.D. 104, 125 (S.D.N.Y.1997)). And “a presumption of correctness 11 is said to attach to a class settlement reached in arms-length negotiations between 12 experienced capable counsel after meaningful discovery.” Manual for Complex 13 Litigation (Third) § 30.42 (1995). This case has been litigated by experienced 14 and well-respected counsel on both sides, all of whom specialize in this area of 15 securities litigation. See Rosen Decl., ¶¶ 45-47, Ex. C of Rosen Fee Decl., Ex. 2.
16 Accordingly, this factor weighs in favor of the Settlement.

17 In addition, the Settlement negotiations were aided by nationally regarded 18 mediator Leo S. Papas, retired Magistrate Judge for the U.S. District Court, 19 Southern District of California. The parties engaged in hard-fought negotiations 20 during an all day mediation in Los Angeles, California. While the mediation did 21 not result in the settlement, it materially advanced the negotiations and aided the 22 parties. See Rosen Decl., ¶¶ 21-22.

23 6. The Reaction of the Class Members to the Settlement

24 Pursuant to the Court’s Notice Order, over 12,000 were sent to Class 25 Members and Summary Notice was published in Investors’ Business Daily and 26 electronically over the Globenewswire. See Bravata Decl., ¶¶ 6-7. The deadline 27 to object to any aspect of the Settlement is April 2, 2014. Id., at ¶ 10. The 28 deadline to exclude oneself from the Settlement is March 24, 2014. Id., at ¶ 9. To 1 date, no objections have been received and there has been one request for 2 exclusion but it appears to fail to abide by the Court's Janaury31, 2014 Order. Id., 3 at ¶¶ 9-10. “[T]he fact that the overwhelming majority of the class willingly 4 approved the offer and stayed in the class presents at least some objective positive 5 commentary as to its fairness” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1027; see also Mego Fin.

6 Corp., 213 F.3d at 458.

7 In short, the pertinent factors considered by Courts all weigh in favor of 8 final approval of the Settlement. As such, the Court should finally approve the 9 Settlement as fair, reasonable, and adequate.

10 III. THE COURT SHOULD APPROVE THE PLAN OF ALLOCATION

11 “Approval of a settlement, including a plan of allocation, rests in the sound 12 discretion of the court.” Heritage, 2005 WL 1594403, at *11 (citing Class 13 Plaintiffs, 955 F.2d at 1284 (internal citation omitted)). “To warrant approval, the 14 plan of allocation must also meet the standards by which the...settlement was 15 scrutinized – namely, it must be fair and adequate.” In re MicroStrategy, Inc. Sec.
16 Litig., 148 F. Supp. 2d 654, 668 (E.D. Va. 2001) (citing Class Plaintiffs, 955 F.2d 17 at 1284-85; In re Oracle Sec. Litig., 1994 WL 502054, at *1 (N.D. Cal. June 18, 18 1994)). “A plan of allocation that reimburses class members based on the extent of 19 their injuries is generally reasonable. It is also reasonable to allocate more of the 20 settlement to class members with stronger claims on the merits.” Oracle, 1994 WL 21 502054, at *1. Therefore, as noted in MicroStrategy, 148 F. Supp. 2d at 669:

22
23 “a plan of allocation . . . fairly treats class members by awarding a pro 24 rata share to every Authorized Claimant, [even as it] sensibly makes 25 interclass distinctions based upon, inter alia, the relative strengths and 26 weaknesses of class members’ individual claims and the timing of 27 purchases of the securities at issue.”

28 The proposed Plan of Allocation herein was fully described in the Notice sent to the Class, at Paragraph 7 thereof. See Bravata Decl., Ex. A. It was

1 formulated by Lead Plaintiffs' Counsel, with the aid of a financial consultant, with 2 the goal of reimbursing Class members in a fair and reasonable manner consistent 3 with the federal securities and the principles of loss causation. To that end, the 4 Plan of Allocation does not compensate losses resulting from "in and out" 5 transactions, i.e. losses from sales made prior to revelation of truth. See Dura 6 Pharmaceuticals, Inc. v. Broudo, 544 U.S. 336, 342 (2005) ("But if, say, the 7 purchaser sells the shares before the relevant truth begins to leak out, the 8 misrepresentation will not have led to any loss."). The Plan of Allocation requires 9 any gains from Class Period transactions to be netted with losses from Class 10 Period transactions, which is rational and reasonable. Once these considerations 11 are taken into account, the Plan of Allocation provides that each authorized 12 claimant will receive a pro rata share of the Net Settlement Fund (i.e., Settlement 13 Amount less attorneys' fees and expenses, and award to Lead Plaintiff). See 14 Bravata Decl., Ex. A.

15 In short, the Plan of Allocation has a rational basis, Lead Counsel believes 16 it fairly compensates Class Members, and this Court should approve it. See In re
17 Global Crossing Sec. & ERISA Litig., 225 F.R.D. 436, 462 (S.D.N.Y. 2004)
18 ("When formulated by competent and experienced class counsel, an allocation 19 plan need have only a 'reasonable, rational' basis.").

20 IV. CONCLUSION

21 Whereas both the Settlement and the Plan of Allocation are fair, reasonable, 22 and adequate, Lead Plaintiffs respectfully request that each be approved by this 23 Court.
